Giants Have Now Won Eleven Straight Games, Their Wonderful Comeback Being the Sensation of the Season.

The New York Evening World). HE wonderful comeback of the Giants is the sensation of the season. Eleven straight! I begins to look very much as if the Collar Champions" might crack that world's record of twenty straight wine, made by Providence, National League, in 1884.

"The Giants are only going at their normal speed now," declares John McGraw.

McGraw certainly is deserving of world of credit for developing the Siant machine. During the disastrous weeks of the early season. when the Glants lost thirteen and won two games, McGraw was called an overrated manager, but he didn't have a word to say in answer to the many criticisms. He offered no alibis, although as a matter of fact the playing of the Giants was not by any means so poor as to deserve such a string of defeats. It seemed that old hard luck was on their trail until they went West. And if I remember right nearly all of the baseball prophets suggested a suspicion that the Giants would be handled worse on foreign fields than they were at home.

The remarkable rejuvenation of Christy Mathewson gives delight to Christy Mathewson gives delight to all of Big Six's old admirers.

The Giants seem headed for a whirlwind rush that will eclipse all of their former pennant winning feats. They are "running wild" on the basea. They have everything they lacked last year. They put over half a dozen steals where they used to have one.

DAILY REVIEW OF BIG LEAGUE RACES

Giants' Record on Road Is Greatest in History Of Modern Baseball

Team Jumped Into First Division From Hopeless Tailend Position, and the West. Which Is Conceding Them the Pennant, Is Wondering What Was the Matter With Them at Home.

By Bozeman Bulger.

HE feat of starting on the road a hopeless tailender, winning a hopeless tailender, winning eleven straight games and taking a running broad jump into the first division is the road record for modern baseball, and the Giants smust be handed the palm. Unsung at home and laughed at abroad two weeks ago, they are now the sensation of the big leagues. The clean-up is even more complete than the smash McGraw hit the West in 1911, when the Giants, against heavy odds, won the pennant.

he declared a month ago that the fear. Germany Schaefer still insists on

In the sudden excitement over the Giants, though, it is still of moment to know that the Yanks are going right ahead with their job of wading through the Western clubs of the American League, winding up with the Browns' series which begins to-day. As an evidence of the way Bill Donovan's gang stands with the fans, a crowd of nearly 30,000 paid their way into the Polo Grounds Saturday, establishing a new attendance record for the American League in New York.

This attendance fever appears to have become epidemic. The Cleveland club went out home to play the Senators over Sunday and outdid all pre
